

Artistic Portfolio / John Murray-Brown

Toolkitty

Peer to peer mobile app

2025

Toolkitty is a peer to peer (P2P) coordination app for collectives, organisers and venues. It allows collectives to share resources and organise events through a collaborative calendar without the need for a centralised server. It is being developed by a group of artists and developers with the aim to explore self organisation and decentralisation.

<https://toolkitty.org/>

<https://github.com/toolkitties/toolkitty>

Soleseeker

Installation

2025

A collection of material gather in a sole. A server made to contain multitudes. Soleseeker was an archiving shoe and server proposition produced for Thank You I Love You, an exhibition at LungA School, Seyðisfjörður as part of their art program.

Tending Infrastructures Together

Workshop

2025

Tending Infrastructures Together was a workshop given in Seyðisfjörður, Iceland as part of an radio exchange with Seyðisfjörður Community Radio. In this workshop I facilitate the discussion of the current infrastructures that we use as radio station and how we might consider a more “tender” approach. Rather than treating infrastructure as neutral or invisible, the workshop framed it as an ongoing practice of care, stewardship, and collective responsibility.